Bilfinger Salmis UK Ltd Gender Pay Gap Supporting Statement

From 2017, any organisation that has 250 or more employees must publish and report specific figures about their gender pay gap.

The gender pay gap is the difference between the average earnings of men and women, expressed relative to men's earnings. For example, 'men earn 15% more than women per hour'.

Employers must both:

- publish their gender pay gap data and a written statement on their public-facing website
- report their data to government online - using the gender pay gap reporting service.

Written Statement

Bilfinger Salmis UK Ltd is a subsidiary of the Bilfinger SE group, and is one of the UK's leading providers of integrated technical services for the process industry.

Results
Mean Pay Gap	29.93%
Median Pay Gap	34.01%
Median Bonus Gap	-117.71%
Proportion of different genders receiving bonus payment	22.63% Male	30% Female
Proportion of different genders in lower quartile	72% Male	27% Female
Proportion of different genders in lower middle quartile	98% Male	2% Female
Proportion of different genders in upper middle quartile	98% Male	1% Female
Proportion of different genders in upper quartile	97% Male	3% Female

As you will see, the industry is quite heavily male dominated with only 1 in 14 employees being female, as traditionally engineering construction has not been an area that females have entered into when selecting a career, with fewer females choosing to study engineering. We tend to see that at the lower end of the quartile there are a higher percentage of females within the industry which tends to be the less technical roles.

Pay Systems

In determining pay and reward for our employees we are governed by National Agreements for a small number of employees. For those employees not covered under such agreements we balance a number of factors, including the economic climate, company performance as well as external market for the roles that we offer. Whilst our reward systems have always ensured full compliance with equal pay, we intend to integrate gender pay gap considerations into future reviews of pay and reward.
